FPPC Investigations

Within 14 days of receiving a complaint signed under penalty of perjury, the Fair Political Practices Commission must inform the complainant of whether or not we will investigate their allegations. The FPPC has begun posting enforcement cases that staff determined, as of September 9, 2010, warrant further investigation. At this time the Commission has not made any determination about the validity of the allegations made, or about the culpability, if any, of the persons identified below.

Commission staff does not provide status updates on investigations. Investigations are resolved with a determination of no wrongdoing, through advisory or warning letters, issuance of administrative fines, and in some instances civil lawsuits. Once a case is closed, a link to the document discussing the method of closure will be provided.
